InformativeBy Jerry R. Selfthe book was very informative for anyone desiring to know more about the history and geography of the region, however, it did tend to get a bit tedious and bogged down at times.1 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Why no pictures?By Jenshen LiuI was hoping to see some pictures not seen in other books (such as Great Heart: The History of a Labrador Adventure; Lure of the Labrador Wild) of Labrador expeditions, but I was disappointed - there isn't any picture in this book. The publisher just did not include any pictures that Mrs. Mina Benson Hubbard had taken in her expedition. Besides, the print is very small.

Short excerpt: His eyes glowed and darkened and in his voice was the ring of a great enthusiasm for he had seen a Vision and this trip was a vital part of his dream.

"A Woman's Way Through Unknown Labrador is worthy of the same attention given to prominent exploration and travel writers on the Canadian North and should be recognized as part of the cannon of Victorian travel-writing and women's autobiography. Grace's introduction is beautifully written and provides an impressive discussion of Hubbard's photographs and a wonderful analysis of the text." Carolyn Podruchny, Western Michigan University About the Author Sherrill E. Grace is professor, English, University of British Columbia, and the author of Inventing Tom Thomson and Canada and the Idea of North. She is currently working as a consultant on a film about Mina Benson Hubbard.
