I share his tender emotions for a canine family member and anyone who has loved a dog will find a deep connection to this true and touching story. Having recently suffered the loss of a long time Scottish Terrier companion makes this tale more compelling and real. A nice, easy and enjoyable read.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. The dog always dies in the end....very sadBy L. HumistonThe dog's portrait is so nice...he is fun, loving and energetic. Of course when he dies I cried. Dogs do not live long enough, a major fault in their creation.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Lovely Tribute to a Good DogBy G. CurtisI very much enjoyed reading this writer's tribute to his beloved Springer Spaniel which includes their final road trip together.

If you loved the best-seller Marley and Me and if you still smile when you recall Steinbeck's Travels with Charley, just wait until you start reading BARKLEY: A Dog's Journey. Pulitzer Prize-winning Los Angeles Times columnist Al Martinez pens the ultimate tribute to the ultimate English Springer Spaniel in this laugh-out-loud and wipe-the-tears-away journal of their last car trip together. When Barkley was diagnosed with a terminal illness, Martinez and his wife, the beloved Cinelli, decided there was no time like the present to spend 24 hours a day and 3000 miles with their wondrous dog. The threesome face not only Barkley's impending end, but Martinez and Cinelli come to grips with their own future as they contemplate the roads they traveled. Sure to become a classic, BARKLEY: A Dog's Journey is a lesson in life, love and the wisdom of woof, as only Al Martinez can tell it.

About the AuthorAl Martinez is a columnist for the "Los Angeles Times", as well as a screenwriter and an author of books and national magazine articles. He shared a gold-medal Pulitzer Prize in Journalism in 1984 and was member of a staff that won Pulitzers in 1993 and 1995. He was honored two years ago by the Society of Professional Journalists as Journalist of the Year. He has also won two National Headliner Awards and a National Ernie Pyle Award. His work has been compared at various times both to that of Pyle and Mark Twain. "The Last City Room" is his first novel, he is currently at work on a second. His last book, "City of Angles", was on the "Los Angeles Times" best-seller list for several weeks. Martinez lives with his wife, Joanne Cinelli, two dogs, two cats and several fish in the Santa Monica Mountains community of Topanga Canyon. He has three grown children and four grandchildren, all of whom he adores.
