Edward G. Henry provides a detailed portrayal of the Berkshires and other-named mountain ranges that form part and parcel of the Taconic Mountain Range. ... His guide brings you not only to the place, but to the moment, and enhances one's appreciation of the land, rivers, forests and vistas that make up this remarkable place --Congressman John W. Olver Ranger Ed Henry will never be a lone ranger, for thousands have read his works and through the magic of words and the power of imagination have hiked every step of the way with him. If Henry weren't writing guidebooks, he would be a writer of nature essays, because he has the heart of a naturalist. He writes in a style that is both fluid and lyrical. He doesn't just describe what he sees he captures its very essence. --Russell Dunn, author of Berkshire Taconic Waterfall Guide About the Author Ed Henry is the author of three other books: Catskill Trails: A Ranger's Guide to the High Peaks, Book I, The Northern Catskills; Catskill Trails: A Ranger's Guide to the High Peaks, Book II, The Central Catskills (Black Dome Press: 2000) and Gunks Trails: A Ranger's Guide to the Shawangunk Mountains (Black Dome Press, 2003), plus numerous magazine articles. Besides his adventures in the Taconic, Berkshire, Catskill, and Shawangunk mountains, Henry has worked for the U.S. Forest Service and as a park ranger in the Shenandoah and Great Smoky Mountains National Parks. He now works for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and is the Refuge Manager for the Wallkill River and Shawangunk Grasslands National Wildlife Refuges.
