Lewis Foreman, Susan Foreman : London: A Musical Gazetteer before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised London: A Musical Gazetteer:

This compact and convenient guide to music in London features the sites where music has flourished and where leading musicians have lived or performed in the city from Handels house to Berliozs rooms, from cathedrals and churches to recording studios and concert halls. It provides historical information on auditoriums and opera houses, theatres, conservatories, museums, libraries, galleries, graves, memorials and statues, orchestras, music publishers, auction houses, and places of musical interest in the greater London area. The book includes biographical accounts of some 125 composers and musicians who inhabited or visited London.
