Tro Harper : Nowhere Except San Francisco : Memoirs of a Resident Tourist before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Nowhere Except San Francisco : Memoirs of a Resident Tourist:

San Francisco: The only city in the nation to make a hero of its transport. The cable cars are now a National Monument. San Francisco: Where residents of Chinese origin live in the most densely populated twenty-six square blocks in America. In the heart of its teeming streets Lillie Lum was born and lived to become one of San Francisco's outstanding fashion designers. San Francisco: At Fishermans Wharf, where steaming curbside crab pots vie for sidewalk space with fishermen mending nets and souvenir hawkers. San Francisco: Where streetcorner flower vendors display dazzling mounds of flowers year round. San Francisco: Where sourdough loaves of bread are an attraction for gourmets from all over the world. And where you will find the most famous tourist attraction in the world The Golden Gate Bridge.
