No maps make the book close to useless By David Elliot Without any maps in this book, you are simply reading through a list of 200 places that may sound like someplace you want to visit, but have no idea where that place is in relation to where you are. Sadly this book is close to useless.

Glossy paperback 1982 334p. 8.50x5.25x0.80. American history no school has time to teach - the story of the men and women who really made this country, the brave, funny and very human account of their individual lives.
