Olivia Snaije : Parisian Cats before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Parisian Cats:

Joyous for cat, Paris and just plain lovers By Robert C Ross As a codger who loves to travel, walk and explore various aspects of new places, Paris has been a continual delight. This June my companion, who grew up near Paris and who loves cats, will visit Paris with me for three days. This charming book has given us a short punch list of places to visit. Hopefully the cats will be in residence and I'll be able to add pictures of my new love with a cat to the album now containing a number of similar pictures in eight different countries and seven different US states. Our list: Shakespeare and Company -- Robert, book lover, and both of us cat lovers have much to appeal to us here. The lovely pictures bring back memories of visiting this store and an eternal "Kitty" going back at least 40 years. Le Caf Zephyre and Swiffer -- My companion had a tiny room near the Birthday Cake, and we always walk up that hill -- it will be a new caf to explore for us both. Helypse and stringed instruments --

a wonderful Maine Coon cat just now approaching 25 pounds. Mickey, a mixed breed who died at 22, but was a fixture at a brasserie that my companion knows very well, L'Select. And, a favorite story -- a restaurant owner who gave up a Michelin because they would have to fire their cat. They wanted the cat more than another star. I gave this book to my companion after one of trips, and we both love paging through it from time to time, remembering cats of Paris and many other places we have shared. A joy for anyone who loves cats, Paris or both.

This is a terrific book if you love Paris, if you love cats, if you like wonderfully written pieces about lovely Parisian haunts, and terrific photos of cats in all their glory strutting their stuff in their Parisian "homes" -- or all of the above. The prose is beautifully written, the photos are delightful, and everything about this book cries "read me and enjoy me". I've bought several for friends, all of whom have been delighted to receive it. A great gift for yourself or someone else.

I think the city and the animal have something in common: they are both beautiful, with a well-defined dignity, sometimes aloof, amusing, affectionate when they know you love them, and endlessly fascinating. The photos were beautiful. I haven't read it completely through yet, but I know I'm going to love every word!

Twenty cats in their purr-furred Parisian locales from cafs and bistros, to bookstores and art studios, to museums and palace hotels invite readers on a feline tour of the City of Lights. In Paris, cafs and cats go hand in paw. Far away from the famous runways in the world capital of fashion, the biggest divas in town can be found strutting their stuff down the zinc bar of many a local hot spot. This book introduces twenty of Paris's most beloved cats as they take us for a stroll past the city's monuments and inside the charming and quintessentially Parisian spots they call home. From her perch in an upstairs window at the legendary Shakespeare and Company bookstore, Kitty surveys the comings and goings of boats along the Seine and visitors at Notre-Dame. Swiffer at Le Caf Zephyr lures customers in from the bustle of the boulevard Hausmann to enjoy a caf or glass of wine in the colonial interior. The exotic pedigreed Fa-raon at the Bristol enjoys pampering worthy of the palace hotels paying clientele. The feline inhabitant of the Montmartre museum not only looks like the iconic black cat from the ever-popular poster for the Chat Noir cabaret, but he was named after the nightclub's founder Rodolphe Salis. These twenty unforgettable cats offer a unique and irresistible Parisian tour.

includes breathtaking photography. The Paris-based author captured an extraordinary tour around one of fashion's most beloved capitals and its famous four-legged locals. Get ready to experience the city through the eyes of 19 unique cats, each sharing their own endearing story. We guarantee you will not only fall in love with these irresistibly adorable characters, but through each cat's enlightening history, you'll look at Paris with a completely new meaning!
